09-02	$326.87	$328.40	$323.53	$324.96	33,776,370	-0.05%	Apple's new CEO is John Ternus, who took over the role on September 1, 2026, succeeding Tim Cook.
09-03	$324.87	$330.81	$324.11	$328.21	37,225,839	1.00%	Fueled by anticipation for the brand new foldable iPhone Duo product cycle debuting at the September 9 keynote.
09-04	$328.31	$328.93	$317.86	$319.97	39,606,885	-2.51%	The decline was triggered by a stark industry report warning of a 400% surge in underlying component and memory costs.
09-08	$317.10	$320.70	$314.90	$316.22	35,477,100	-1.17%	The minor drop was fueled by a mix of defensive de-risking ahead of the next day's iPhone Duo keynote, heightened macro fears of a looming Federal Reserve interest rate hike.
09-09	$315.49	$319.15	$309.90	$315.34	65,639,962	-0.28%	The minor slip reflects typical "sell the news" behavior from institutional traders locking in short-term profits following the official debut of the iPhone 18 and foldable iPhone Duo, coupled with pre-order scrutiny ahead of the September 11 launch cycle.
09-10	$316.67	$326.74	$309.90	$326.57	17,217,606	3.56%	The single-session rally added billions back to its market capitalization as Wall Street praised the premium iPhone 18 pricing structure and the long-term margin protection it provides against supply chain inflation.
